

Video Surveillance

Internet via wireless remote real-time image transfer photos to the monitoring center, has been applied in many industries mature, become an optionally deployed, regardless of location, time constraints, and low-cost video surveillance solution. Its not only widely used in conventional security monitoring, environmental monitoring, automotive applications, but also in the field of professional railway monitoring, industrial equipment operating status monitoring emerge to play an effective role.

